Q: probability of getting at least one tail
Question : A lottery game gives 5 pips to a ball. The probability of drawing a tail is  $\frac{1}{2}$  (given that tails are generated uniformly). a) Calculate the probability of drawing at least one tail. The answer is given as  $\frac{31}{32}$ . Can someone explain to me how they got this? A: A tail occurs if no heads are drawn before the 5th pip is drawn. a) The probability of a tail is  $\frac{1}{2}$ . The probability of no heads occur before the 5th pip is drawn is  $\frac{1}{2^5}$ , which is approximately  $\frac{1}{32}$ . The probability of getting at least one tail is therefore  $1 - \frac{1}{2^5} = \frac{31}{32}$ .
Matrix metalloproteinase-2 inhibition prevents human mesenchymal stem cell differentiation into myofibroblasts. This study examined whether matrix metalloproteinase-2 (MMP-2) is involved in the differentiation of human mesenchymal stem cells (MSCs) to myofibroblasts (MFBs) and whether inhibition of MMP-2 protects MSCs from undergoing myofibroblast differentiation. A neonatal human fibroblast feeder layer was used to induce myofibroblast differentiation. Cells were cultured in medium containing 0.1% fetal bovine serum and treated with transforming growth factor-beta1 (TGF-beta1), an agent that induces MFB differentiation. MMP-2 was transiently inhibited using the specific inhibitor, BB-94. To examine the role of MMP-2, gelatin zymography was performed on MFB-conditioned medium. MMP-2 was constitutively active in the conditioned medium of the fibroblast feeder layer, but not that of the control medium. BB-94 markedly inhibited MMP-2 activity in the conditioned medium of MFBs induced by the fibroblast feeder layer. Finally, the effect of BB-94 on MSC differentiation into MFBs was examined. MSCs were isolated from the bone marrow of fetal rats and cultured in medium containing TGF-beta1. MMP-2 activity was constitutively high in the MSC conditioned medium. The specific M
